MEET "LBJ & LADY BIRD" THIS SATURDAY AT CARTER LIBRARY ORIGINAL PERFORMANCE SHOWCASES THIS FASCINATING FIRST FAMILY

Atlanta, GA. Celebrate President's Month at the Jimmy Carter Presidential Library with "President Lyndon Johnson and Lady Bird". Bill and Sue Wills bring this Presidential couple to life in an hour-long, original performance in the Carter Museum theater. The performance is this Saturday, February 27th, at 2pm and is included in the museum admission at no additional charge. Children 16 and under receive free admission to the museum and the "LBJ" performance.

Lyndon Johnson was known for his bigger than life personality and as Lady Bird herself said, life with Lyndon was "one big adventure." Share the adventure this Saturday.

Also, join us Thursday March 4th as author and historian Betty Glad discusses her new book, "Outsider in the White House: Jimmy Carter, His Advisors and the Making of American Foreign Policy." The 7pm reading and book signing is in the museum theater and is free.

Literary Journal says "Glad concludes that as an "outsider" Carter was forced against his early wishes to rely (not always wisely) on more experienced "insiders," notably Brzezinski, and that while a moralistic bent hindered his ambitions in arms control with the Soviets, his fervor gave him the tenacity to achieve successes such as the Camp David Accord."

Copies of "Outsider in the White House" will be available for purchase at the book signing.
