Creator Information: Rick Hutto

Richard Jay Hutto was born October 7, 1952, in Fitzgerald, Georgia. A former attorney, served as White House Appointments Secretary to the Carter Family and was Chairman of the Georgia Council for the Arts. A frequent international lecturer, Hutto is an elected member of the City Council of Macon, Georgia, as well as a Knight of Malta and a Knight of the Holy Sepulchre. As one of the foremost historians of the Gilded Age, has compiled and edited a large number of books about the era. Hutto is currently featured as an on-air authority (and receives credit as a historical consultant) in an internationally-aired National Geographic Channel documentary produced by Edgewest Productions.

Hutto's first book, released by Lyons Press/Globe Pequot in October of 2010, was A Peculiar Tribe of People: Murder and Madness in the Heart of Georgia. He then wrote The Kaiser's Confidante: The First American-Born Princess and A Poisoned Life: The First American Woman Sentenced to Death in England.
