Free Lunchtime Concert

Franklin Pond Chamber Music at Carter Library

Atlanta, GA.— The Franklin Pond Chamber Music program comes to the Carter Presidential Library for a lunchtime concert on Tuesday, July 29th. The noon concert will be in the lobby of the Carter Presidential Museum and is free and open to the public.

Franklin Pond Chamber Music is a unique summer chamber-music program for talented pre-college musicians. Created as an opportunity for serious students to interact personally with highly qualified professionals, the program offers coaching with faculty members, masterclasses with guest artists, and regularly scheduled sight-reading sessions.

The goal of the program is to develop the artistic and interpretive talents of the students, as well as to strengthen their communication skills as developing musicians.

The forty-five minute concert will feature familiar music as well as an original piece by composer Eddie Horst.

Join us for a beautifully entertaining noon-time concert and show your support for these young musicians.
