Time Change.....President Jimmy Carter Book Signing 6 pm, Wednesday, October 13th at Carter Library

ATLANTA, GA. - Because of a scheduling conflict, the time of President Carter's book signing has been delayed until 6pm, Wednesday, Oct. 13th.

President Jimmy Carter will sign copies of his new book White House Diary or any other BOOK he has written in this special book signing at the Carter Presidential Library on Wednesday, October 13th. The free book signing will begin at 6pm in the museum lobby. Copies of White House Diary and other books by President Carter are available for purchase at the museum gift shop.

In order to allow as many people as possible to get their books signed, President Carter will be unable to personalize the books or pose for photographs. While President Carter will sign as many of his books as you have, there is a limit of ten books per person per trip through the line. You can go through the line as many times as possible.

Because those attending the book signing will go through security, you are strongly encouraged not to bring backpacks, large purses or bags and unnecessary items.

Those who cannot attend the book signing, but want to purchase an autographed book can call the Carter Museum gift shop (404) 865-7131 by noon Tuesday, October 12th to order a signed book. The book will be signed at the conclusion of the book signing and shipped to you.
