The Carter Library and Museum is closed during this health crisis but we have lots of ways we can stay connected. In addition to our email list, you can follow us on Facebook, Twitter and Instagram. You can also email our public affairs office at tony.clark@nara.gov
Turn our Virtual Tour into a Scavenger Hunt.
Note: The Virtual Tour begins in the Oval Office. You can navigate left and right once you leave the room. Happy Exploring!

1. The Presidential Seal (there are two!)
2. The Resolute Desk
3. President Carter’s coat worn at his Inauguration
4. President Carter’s highchair
5. Mrs. Carter’s wedding dress
6. President Carter’s naval epaulets and submariner pin
7. President Carter’s “energy” sweater
8. The Octavio Ocampo portrait
9. Painting depicting the Camp David Accords handshake
10. An Iranian Hostage blindfold
11. A bench built by President Carter
12. The Nobel Peace Prize

BONUS: Using the timeline wall, name a pop-culture event that took place during the Carter Presidency.

virtual_tour

Go to the Carter Library Facebook page to learn Fun Facts about some of the things you'll see on the virtual tour...

Fun Facts About the Presidential Seal:

Did you see the white plaster seal on the ceiling of the Oval Office? Or the full color version hanging in the rotunda?
Number 13 represents the 13 original colonies. The left talon clutches arrows which represent the need sometimes to go to war to protect the nation.

The eagle holds a ribbon bearing the words “E Pluribus Unum,” the motto of the U.S., which means “out of many, one.”

A shield in front of the eagle has 13 red and white stripes, again representing the colonies, with a blue bar above, representing both the unity of colonies into one nation and Congress, which makes laws for all.

Above the eagle is a “glory Or” or halo of gold. In it are 13 white clouds, 13 white stars and many tiny stars. The 50 stars on a field of deep blue circle the eagle and represent the 50 states.

Carter Library Facebook Page member Jesse Wegman talking about his book "Let the People Pick the President."

Here he is on NPR.

__Jesse Wegman on NPR__

This is also an opportunity to look at some of the cool stuff in our digital files.

Frequently Requested Materials

And with schools closed, parents are looking for ways to teach their kids. We've put together some resources to help students learn about the Carter Administration.

Education Resources
Have a birthday or other special occasion coming up but you can't get out to shop? Visit our online museum store. We have lots of toys, books, hats—even peanut plants. Something for everyone.

Shop Museum Store

Our goal is for everyone to stay safe and healthy during this challenging time. We appreciate your understanding and support. You can always keep up to date with the Carter Library through our Facebook page, Twitter and Instagram. You can also email us.

Contact Us

The Jimmy Carter Presidential Library and Museum is part of the National Archives and Records Administration and is dedicated to providing research information and educational materials about the life, career and presidency of Jimmy Carter.