Final Author Program of 2011 at the Carter Library
Holiday Caroling and Civil War Author Coming This Tuesday

Atlanta, GA. – The final author book signing of the 2011 season will be this coming Tuesday, December 13th at 7pm in the Carter Presidential Museum theater. Civil War expert James Robertson comes to the Carter Library to discuss and sign his new book "The Untold Civil War: Exploring the Human Side of War." From overlooked elements, such as the role of weather, health, and high emotions, to the world-changing effect of the rise of female workers, to the many "firsts" including the introduction of standard time, pre-sized clothing, canned goods, toilets, and Santa Claus, The Untold Civil War reveals new facets of a seemingly well-known slice of American history, just in time to commemorate its 150th anniversary.

Dramatically illustrated with archival images and objects and compelling contemporary photography, this book delivers a surprise on every page: from precious personal mementos to forgotten battle sites; from newly recovered glass-plate negatives that reveal long-observed photographic details to long-lost documents; this book adds a new dimension to our understanding of the Civil War and is a must-have for anyone with an interest in American history. For those interested in the Civil War or the effects of war on individuals, this is a program you won't want to miss. A Cappella Books will have copies of The Untold Civil War available for purchase and signing.

And be sure to stop by the Carter Museum lobby at 11:30 am on Tuesday (Dec. 13th) to hear the Mt. Zion High School Choir sing holiday carols. The musical program will really get you in the spirit of the holidays.

Both the caroling and the author program are free and open to the public.
