Authors Coming to Carter Library in July

Atlanta, June 22---History-lovers will enjoy our July authors. The programs are free and begin at 7pm in the Carter Museum Theater unless noted otherwise. Here's what's coming:

July 10...Alexander Heffner...A Documentary History of the United States

Here, in a single volume, are the documents, speeches, and letters that have forged American history, now updated with new content such as Trump's inaugural address.

July 19...Austin Channing Brown...I'm Still Here

Austin Channing Brown will be in conversation with LeCrae. In a time when nearly all institutions claim to value "diversity" in their mission statements, I'm Still Here is a powerful account of how and why our actions so often fall short of our words. Austin writes in breathtaking detail about her journey to self-worth and the pitfalls that kill our attempts at racial justice. The program will be in the Carter Center's Cecil B. Day Chapel. This event is free and open to the public. However, you may reserve your seat by pre-ordering a signed copy at

July 30...Anders Walker...The Burning House: Jim Crow and the Making of Modern America

This is a startling and gripping reexamination of the Jim Crow era, as seen through the eyes of some of the most important American writers.

July 31... Vanessa Siddle Walker...The Lost Education of Horace Tate

For two years an aging Dr. Horace Tate—a former teacher, principal, and state senator—told Emory University professor Vanessa Siddle Walker about his clandestine travels on unpaved roads under the cover of night, meeting with other educators and with Dr. King, Georgia politicians, and even U.S. presidents. Just days after Dr. Tate's passing in 2002, up a dusty, rickety staircase, locked in a concealed attic, Walker found a massive archive documenting the underground actors and covert strategies behind the most significant era of the fight for educational justice.
