SUMMARY OF DAILY POLITICAL REPORT

12 September 1980

Electrostatic Copy Made
for Preservation Purposes

Press. Negative editorials on the debate issue were reported in Philadelphia, Chicago, Detroit, Oklahoma City and in Delaware, Nebraska and North and South Dakota.

New Jersey. Bergen County (7th CD) poll shows Carter beating Reagan 49-31% in a 2-way race, losing 24-41% in a 3-way race with Anderson at 19%. ?

New York. All NYC Rabbis have received a letter from Reagan. We are countering with one of our own.

Alabama. First Lady received good coverage in Gadsden, fair coverage in Birmingham. Fob James is doing a lot of campaigning for himself, but steers clear of the presidential race.

North Carolina. Reagan and RNC ads running frequently. The First Lady's advance team was impressed with our organization in the state. A survey of the 100 county chairs shows good support and enthusiasm.

West Virginia. Charleston poll shows Carter 38, Reagan 26, Anderson 14.

Illinois. Local press is describing Mayor Byrne's endorsement of Mondale at the State Convention as lukewarm.

Ohio. Trips by the VP and Secretary Marshall received good coverage.

California. LA Times poll showed, for voters "pretty certain" of their choice on election day Reagan 42, Carter 40, Anderson 16. For voters "not certain" of their choice, Reagan 18, Carter 10, Anderson 32.

Colorado. Lucey and Bush both made Denver stops. Neither received much coverage.

Kansas. Topeka poll shows Reagan 48, Carter 25, Anderson 9.

Oklahoma. Gov. Nigh will host a unity breakfast at the Mansion for all Democratic elected and party officials. Both Reagan and Anderson have opened headquarters.

Oregon. 1st CD poll (NW Oregon, part of Portland) shows Reagan 32, Carter 29, Anderson 22.

SUMMARY OF DAILY POLITICAL REPORT

10 September 1980

Electrostatic Copy Made

Press

Senior citizens upset about Secretary Miller's interview in Newsweek saying that the Administration is readying proposals to slow down Social Security increases and describing the current benefit program as an example of 'overindexation.'

Critical press on the debate issue reported in Florida, Iowa, Ohio, Hawaii, New Mexico, North Dakota, Washington.

8:00 AM political meeting

Bill Brock to hold press conference today on the "abuse of incumbency." A suit is suspected. John White will respond.

Secretary Duncan will respond to Reagan's comments on energy. Talking points were distributed on the Hill.

Illinois. VP's trip to downstate, suburban Cook County and Chicago went well. VP received a 5-minute ovation prior to his speech at the State Democratic Convention.

New Jersey. Newark Times: "Carter Visits Perth Amboy: Forges Unity." Doherty said the President was gracious and extremely helpful. In Hackensack, Anderson attacked Carter, did not mention Reagan.

Connecticut. Our campaign trying to forge an alliance with Chris Dodd.

Maine. Gov. Brennan will accept co-chairmanship of our campaign.

Massachusetts. Tommy O'Neill will be a surrogate speaker for us.

New Hampshire. Polls show Reagan 65, Anderson 17, Carter 13.

New York. VP's trip to Buffalo went well. McCleary and Torricelli setting up a Jewish C/M Committee. No consensus apparent among labor leaders about the Javits race.

Arkansas. Negative press about Ft. Chaffee continues. Bumpers and Pryor will attend the VP's breakfast on 9/16 -- the first sign of support from either.

Kentucky. RNC media is running. Reagan forces were active at State NAACP Convention last weekend -- hospitality suites, etc.

Tennessee. RNC and Reagan media running.

Virginia. Chip's trip went well. Crowds and coverage good.

Alaska. Clark Gruening in trouble against Republican Frank Murkowski.

Oregon. Oregonian editorial attacked Anderson as spoiler and Lucey as not presidential material.

Texas. Good coverage for Hobby/Hill/Bullock/Armstrong stumping for C/M. Press reports Briscoe as neutral.

Washington. Poll shows Reagan 36, Carter 34, Anderson 18. Carter up from 26% two weeks ago, Reagan and Anderson unchanged.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM:

FRANK MOORE F.M. jr

SUBJECT:

Atucha II

Although this issue is nowhere near the magnitude of Tarapur, I am concerned about Hill reaction. Glenn's staff has indicated that this issue is not troublesome, but HFAC staff is not comfortable with the issue if the NRC is not with you and we cannot let it be known that you have the proper assurances from the Argentines. If we get unambiguous assurances we should be all right.

Jack Watson comment:

I agree with the NSC position that we require "direct and unambiguous" assurances from the Argentines. I would also try to get a clearer and firmer reading on the NRC view of the matter before proceeding further.

Carter-Mondale Re-election
Committee
2000 L Street, N. W., 4th Floor
Washington, D. C. 20036

Dear Bob:

Japanese auto imports are now harming the President's chances for re-election, and the political damage will only worsen in the upcoming weeks. I'm writing to you, Bob -- with full respect for Reubin Askew, the President's very able Trade Representative, with whom I have discussed the trade questions involved -- because I feel this issue has to be viewed in political terms as well, and can be turned from a political liability into a political plus.

Over a million workers have now been laid off in the auto and supplying industries, one-third auto assembly plant workers, two-thirds in auto parts and supplying firms represented by our coalition of 25 industrial unions. Our union members in all these industries should be the backbone of the re-election campaign. Instead we find them vulnerable to appeals by opposition candidates promising action against imports and in behalf of jobs.

The issues so far have been buried under legalisms and a textbook approach to international trade. I am bringing this to your attention now because you demonstrated during the MTN negotiations that you could link political and economic issues to meet the President's objectives. The President needs to have the same kind of approach presented to him now.

1. The President should authorize the negotiation of a Voluntary Restraint Agreement with the Japanese. It is clear that the President has such authority. Such a negotiation could be on an interim basis, pending the anticipated ITC recommendation. If useful, the original petitioners could file a "301" petition with USTR calling for provisional relief under GATT Article 19.

2. The agreement should be approved and initialled by Reubin Askew in time to permit the scheduling of a full-dress signing ceremony at the White House, with Doug Fraser, Lloyd McBride, other union leaders and industry principals as invited guests.

3. At the ITC hearings October 8-9 we can presume that these same union leaders will make statements of praise -- rather than otherwise -- for an Administration which has taken speedy and effective action to stem the lost of jobs.

I trust you will have a chance to discuss this soon with the President. We have an opportunity here to help our workers, the country, and the President at one stroke. I hope we can do it.

Sincerely,

MEETING WITH THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF SOCIAL WORKERS
SEPTEMBER 12, 1980
2:55 p.m.
THE OVAL OFFICE

FROM: ANNE WEXLER Anne
LEONARD G. HIRSCH LGH

I. PURPOSE:

To obtain a photo with you for the announcement of the National Association of Social Workers endorsement of your reelection.

II. BACKGROUND:

The National Association of Social Workers (NASW) is the largest organization of professional social workers in the world with 85,000 members. Two-thirds of these members are distributed in ten key states in the Northeast and the West, and a large group in Texas and Florida.

The NASW October newspaper will carry their endorsement along with this picture.

Their membership is most concerned with maintaining high levels of human services.

III. PARTICIPANTS AND PRESS PLAN:

Participants:

- Dr. Nancy Humphries, National President, National Association of Social Workers, from Rutgers University, New Jersey
- Chauncey Alexander, Executive Director, NASW

Press Plan: White House, Associated Press, and United Press International photographers.

IV. TALKING POINTS:

I am pleased that such a large and important group of professionals is going to endorse Vice President Mondale and myself for reelection.

I want to continue to work with you over the next four years to insure the highest level of professional social work services. I also want to emphasize my support of the training of these professionals and their involvement in policy developments which affect our human services programs.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM:

FRANK MOORE FM

SUBJECT:

DAN TATE
New York City and HUD Appropriations

The Times and Daily News articles on our efforts in opposition to the Proxmire Amendment were good publicity for us. However, we are not out of trouble entirely.

The articles revealed your conversation with Congressman Boland and our strategy of avoiding a Senate Floor fight and concentrating on conference. Proxmire and others may now attempt to have the Senate confirm the Appropriations Committee language, perhaps through instructions, or someone in the House may seek instructions to the House conferees. We would almost certainly lose the votes in both Houses. If this occurs, then we must try to delay completion of the conference until after the election. HUD could survive on a continuing resolution. Of course, there is the alternative of a veto if all else fails, but this is by far the least desirable route.

I believe that we need to immediately enlist the assistance of the Senate leadership, particularly Senator Byrd, in (1) avoiding a Floor vote on the Proxmire Amendment, (2) avoiding instructions to the Senate conferees, and (3) softening up the Senate conferees. This will require a call from you to Senator Byrd first thing Monday morning at the latest.

Also, we must make sure that Congressman Boland understands that you did not authorize Senator Moynihan to divulge your conversation with him.

Dear Mr. President:

This letter is in accordance with my promise to keep you informed of any problems or situations in the field of chemical dependency on which you, as the Commander in Chief, may want to take personal action. The problem which I am bringing to your attention has a high potential for disastrous consequences in commercial air travel. It concerns the relicensing and return to flight duty of recovering alcoholic airline pilots.

Briefly, prior to 1972, any air crew member with alcoholism would hide his disease, usually with the aid of his peers, subordinates, superiors, and family members. The reason for the cover-up was that according to FAA regulations, chronic alcoholism is a disqualifying disease. As a result, the only humane and realistic solution for an alcoholic crew member was to continue functioning marginally, and with the help of others avoid any serious accident until irreversible damage of chronic alcoholism (such as cirrhosis or brain damage) became demonstrable so that the pilot could then be medically retired by his airline instead of being fired by the FAA.

In 1972, largely through the efforts of Dr. Rick Reighard, the present Federal Air Surgeon, the FAA designed a program under which an alcoholic air crew member can be sent through alcoholic rehabilitation and returned to an effective flight career without losing his job. The conditions are that after rehabilitation, the pilot must still be physically and mentally qualified according to FAA standards, must have a good prognosis for continued sobriety, and must be willing to cooperate in a monitoring and surveillance program (for at least 24 months) which is administered jointly by the FAA, the Airline Pilots Association, and the pilot's airline. He then continues to fly under a "Grant of Exemption" from the Federal Air Surgeon.

"we care for people"

Jimmy Carter
September 8, 1980

This program has been spectacularly successful. I have been involved in various phases of it since its inception, and I consider it to be the nation's most successful alcoholism rehabilitation program, far ahead of any counterpart in industry, the government, or organized medicine. Since 1973, over 300 male and female airline pilots have been successfully flying under the exemption program, and about ten to fifteen new cases are studied each month.

Unfortunately, as a result of a decision made by Judge Vining of the Federal District Court in Atlanta on May 16, 1980 (in connection with a Delta Airlines vs. Federal Aviation Administration and Airline Pilots Association court case), the Federal Air Surgeon was prohibited from issuing any more exemptions to air crew members for any disease, including alcoholism, until further notice. Since then, no exemptions have been processed by the FAA. Numerous telephone calls to my office and home from many concerned people throughout the country tell me that all of the people who have been making the exemption program a success (airline medical departments, FAA Medical Department, Airline Pilots Association, and the many alcoholism program coordinators and volunteers, including Alcoholics Anonymous) are bogged down by a mixture of anger, resentment, disappointment, and confusion. While they are waiting for a decision from the FAA administrator, Mr. Langhorn Bond, untreated alcoholic pilots are still drinking and getting sicker, and the exemption program is slipping back to the days of 1972, which means that it has come to a halt. In recent weeks I have begun to see cases in which pilots who are obviously alcoholic are being diagnosed as "only an alcohol user" or as having only a "drinking problem" so that the pilot will not have to be permanently harmed during this legalistic moratorium. Also some of the pilots who were processed before May 16, 1980 and are being monitored feel that they were "double-crossed by the Feds."

As best as I can ascertain, the logjam is with the FAA's legal staff headed by Chief Counsel, Clark Omstad. It hinges on "what is the proper wording" which should be made in the Certificate of Exemption. Since 1973 the phrase has been that "it would be in the public interest" to grant this exemption. The Court is apparently objecting to this kind of program as being in the public interest.

As a clinician, I have known for a long time that if there is no exemption program under which an alcoholic can cooperate in treatment and pull his life together again, then the public interest is not being served, and aviation safety is compromised. The reason is that the alcoholic pilot avoids treatment because he knows that being diagnosed alcoholic would mean the end of a career; and non-alcoholic flight crew, physicians, administrators, and others look the other way because they don't want to be the "Executioners" or "bad guys" who are responsible for terminating a fellow pilot's career by turning him in. As a result, we have undiagnosed, untreated pilots flying - and that is clearly not in the public interest.

Jimmy Carter
September 8, 1980

At the risk of sounding alarmist, I have to make you aware of one more thing. When a chronic alcoholic stops drinking abruptly (and that is what every alcoholic airline pilot has to do 12 to 24 hours prior to a flight), he is subject to not only feeling miserable, but more seriously, he may have a grand mal, epileptic-type withdrawal seizure which characteristically occurs anywhere from eight to seventy-two hours after cessation of drinking. I have six pilots in my patient load to whom this actually happened - in flight - or within minutes after they had walked away from the airplane subsequent to landing. Fortunately, and perhaps miraculously, no aircraft accident that we know of has resulted from this kind of incident.

About two weeks ago I spoke by telephone with Mr. Langhorn Bond, whom I have met in the past. I discussed the situation with him pretty much as I am describing it to you in this letter. However, I got the feeling that possibly because of other ramifications of this case, to which I am not privy, the eventual resolution of the alcoholic pilot returning to flight duty under the exemption program may require a long time. I mentioned to Mr. Bond that from time to time I inform you of significant aspects of chemical dependency problems in the nation, and that in my next report I would very likely inform you of the urgency and the potential danger of the problem as I see it.

Incidentally, I also mentioned to Mr. Bond that a number of the people who have telephoned me are seriously thinking of contacting Jack Anderson, 60 Minutes on CBS, and other sources that could bring this problem to national attention. I have urged restraint on my colleagues and friends in regard to making this a public issue because it could be made into a political nightmare which would do more harm than good. All we need to do is restore the exemption program to what it was prior to May 16, 1980. So far it has worked beautifully because it makes sense clinically; it is in the best interests of safety; it has the emotional support of the non-alcoholics who make it possible; and eventually even the alcoholics who benefit from it simply because it is at one in the same time both in the pilot's interest and in the public interest.

If I can be of any assistance in this matter, please have your office contact me.

Respectfully yours,

Joseph A. Pursch, M.D.

Polish food credit announcement

*Susan
Cards
J*

The government and people of the United States have watched with concern and with hope as events unfolded in Poland during recent weeks. Our response has been careful, constructive, and prudent. All of us have sympathized with the aspirations of the Polish people. All of us are glad that a crisis in Poland's evolution appears to be on its way to a peaceful and constructive resolution.

These events touched the emotions of all who care about the rights and dignity of people. There was progress. There is also continuing economic dislocation. Now there is need -- the most basic kind of need, the need for food. On behalf of the American people, I am acting on an urgent basis to help meet that need.

I have today directed the U.S. Department of Agriculture to extend $670 million in new credit guarantees to Poland for the purchase of agricultural commodities. In plain language, this means that the American people and American farmers will provide some four million tons of grain and other farm products to the people of Poland.

Let me say something about why we are doing this.

In taking this action, the Government of the United States is responding -- rapidly and in full -- to a request from the Government of Poland.

But in a deeper sense, we are responding to a moral obligation that is rooted in the fundamental beliefs of both the Polish and the American peoples.

This action is a significant proof of the solidarity between the American people and the people of Poland.

It is an expression of our admiration for the dignity with which the entire Polish nation -- the workers, the Church and the government -- is conducting itself during this difficult time of evolution and change.

It is a demonstration of our willingness to use our greatest material asset -- the bounty of the American earth -- for humanitarian and constructive purposes.

Finally, it is a manifestation of our undiminished belief in a central human reality -- the yearning for basic human rights. That yearning is one of the most powerful and constructive forces in the world. Our support for it is more than a matter of words. //

~~The events in Poland reflect a universal human experience. Our feelings about them are rooted in our own part of that experience.~~

~~In 1912, during a textile workers' strike in Lawrence, Massachusetts, one of the strike leaders was asked what the~~ strikers wanted. Her reply became a famous labor rallying cry: "We want bread -- and roses, too." She meant, of course, that the strikers were struggling not only for material benefits, but for the values and ideals that give life its meaning and beauty.

The people and nation of Poland seek bread and roses too. That search will inevitably have economic costs. As it continues, the people and nation of America stand ready to help them.

Senator Proxmire has attached to the HUD Appropriations bill a provision which effectively precludes the Secretary from administering a loan guarantee program for New York City during FY 1981. The amendment was adopted by the Appropriations Committee by voice vote. The bill will be taken up and disposed of on the Senate floor on Monday. We have very little chance of winning in a floor fight. Furthermore, if we fight and lose, it will strengthen Senator Proxmire, who will head the Senate conferees, in the Conference Committee. We want to avoid the Senate floor fight if we can get the Proxmire amendment dropped in conference. We request that you call Congressman Boland, the Chairman of the House Subcommittee and leader of the House conferees, to ask for his strong support and to determine if he can insure that the Proxmire amendment will not survive conference. If he cannot do both, then we will probably have to fight on the Senate floor because of New York political considerations.

Ask the Congressman 1) if he will oppose the Proxmire amendment and 2) does he think the House conferees will stay with him to beat it.
