To "Pappy" Brown

Thank you for letting me see the 1979 article from the Sentinel Star which featured your 102nd birthday celebration, as well as a brief story of your interesting life.

I was particularly impressed to read about your regular church attendance, and I hope you continue to enjoy the blessings of good health, good friends--and a good sense of humor!

Sincerely,

JIMMY CARTER

At 102, Pappy holds court

By KATHY GRANT

Sentinel Star

One day passes much like the next for James Brown — with Sunday as one special exception. Sunday James "Pappy" Brown turned 102 years old.

It was a joyful occasion, celebrated at Rosie O'Grady's, because "I like that there Red Hot Mamma. Bless her heart. Come on down Red Hot Mamma," he says, eyes aglitter, "I've come to court you."

People bustled. Waiters bowed. Others came to shake his hand. But Pappy just sat and smiled, taking it all in like a king surveying his court.

A roomful of happy faces, led by Rosie's ragtime band, sang "Happy Birthday" to him as ice cream, cake and flowers were presented. Everybody wanted to see the man who was 102 years old.

"Bring on them dancin' girls," he said, cane in one hand and gin and tonic in the other. But he really liked the Red Hot Mamma.

Pappy lives alone in his Carver Court residence off Westmoreland Drive. His friend, Mary Williams, takes care of his little green house and fixes his meals. Friends drop by for a visit. But mostly, God watches out for old Pappy.

"I pray to God every day to spare me," he says. "An' that's why I live so long. Treat others the way you wanna be treated, and God'll spare you."

He chuckles, amused that people should be so attentive to his age. Since his first interview in 1976, he's an old hand at answering inquiries.

"I was born on an Indian reservation. Half Cherokee, half Mexican. My mother, a Cherokee, lived to be 110," he said.

But his childhood ended and on Easter 1894, Brown left his birthplace near Tulsa, Okla., when he was 17 to venture to New Orleans.

"I toted bananas (on a boat) for 16 cents an hour. I done everything I could. I been a brakeman 14 years for the Seaboard Railroad. I unloaded oranges in Florida. I worked on the waterfront in Philly. I done worked hard for ever' thing I got. An' that's corn straight off the cob."

Though there's a bit of the devil dancing in his eyes, he attends church regularly.

"Mrs. King, my friend, carries me to church every Sunday. She's a nice lady."

But Pappy says, "Women never gave me much problems. One girl is enough for me. I was the devil when I was young. They (women) used to scream after me, though. Hair was black as soot, eyelashes long and dark..."

He's still a "handsome ol' devil." Thick white hair with eyes aglow, Pappy doesn't look a day past 75.

There's little that he hasn't done that he wants to do.

"I jus' wanna meet Jesus when I die. You live right, an' you live a clean life. Long as I can eat an' sleep, I'm satisfied."

TODAY'S CONSUMER PRICE REPORT IS A [CLEAR] REMINDER OF ~~THE STRENGTH OF INFLATIONARY FORCES IN OUR ECONOMY.~~ IT TELLS US THAT INFLATION IS STILL OUR NUMBER ONE PROBLEM AND CONFIRMS
THE WISDOM OF OUR POLICY OF [SUPPORT FOR] HOLDING DOWN GOVERNMENT SPENDING AND ^{totally opposing} [OPPOSITION FOR] THE ELECTION-YEAR TAX CUT PROPOSED BY THE REPUBLICANS. DESPITE THE FACT THAT THE INFLATION RATE HAS MODERATED FROM A PEAK OF ALMOST 20 PERCENT FOLLOWING THE OPEC PRICE INCREASES TO AN AVERAGE OF 7 PERCENT FOR THE PAST THREE MONTHS, THE FIGURES THIS MONTH ARE A WARNING SIGNAL.

THE WARNING IS CLEAR:

- WE MUST NOT ADD TO INFLATIONARY PRESSURES.
- WE MUST NOT OVERSTIMULATE THE ECONOMY.
- WE MUST NOT PERMIT MASSIVE ACROSS-THE-BOARD TAX REDUCTIONS.
- WE MUST NOT ADD TO FEDERAL DEFICITS.

THE REAGAN-KEMP-ROTH PROPOSAL WOULD FLOUT EVERY ONE OF THESE WARNINGS. IT WOULD JEOPARDIZE ALL THE PROGRESS WE HAVE MADE

IN DAMPENING INFLATION. ENACTING IT WOULD BE LIKE POURING GASOLINE ON A SMOLDERING FIRE.

THE REPUBLICAN VICE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE HAS HIMSELF
ACKNOWLEDGED THIS FACT. HE ESTIMATED THAT REAGAN-KEMP-ROTH WOULD IGNITE AN INFLATION RATE OF 30 PERCENT. HE HAS RIDICULED THE WHOLE SCHEME AS "VOODOO ECONOMICS."

MOST PEOPLE RECOGNIZE THAT FIGHTING INFLATION IS NOT EASY. IT REQUIRES PATIENCE. IT REQUIRES STEPS THAT ARE RARELY POPULAR IN THEMSELVES -- RESTRAINING GOVERNMENT SPENDING, MAINTAINING SOUND FISCAL POLICIES, REJECTING IRRESPONSIBLE TAX BONANZAS.

IT REQUIRES THAT WE ATTACK INFLATION AT ITS ROOTS: BY REDUCING FOREIGN OIL DEPENDENCE; BY ELIMINATING UNNECESSARY
REGULATION -- IN KEY INDUSTRIES LIKE AIRLINES, RAILROADS AND TRUCKING; BY MODERATING WAGE AND PRICE DECISIONS; BY ENCOURAGING
HIGHER PRODUCTIVITY THROUGH INVESTMENT IN NEW PLANT AND EQUIPMENT.

THESE ACTIONS LACK THE POLITICAL GLAMOR OF QUICK TAX

GIVEAWAYS. THEY HAVE ONE REAL ADVANTAGE: THEY WORK.

MOST PEOPLE ARE RIGHTLY SUSPICIOUS OF SALES PITCHES -- OR POLITICAL PROPOSALS -- THAT OFFER SOMETHING FOR NOTHING. THEY KNOW IT DOES NOT TAKE LEADERSHIP OR COURAGE TO SAY:

-- LET'S OPEN UP THE FLOODGATES.

-- LET'S GIVE A BIG TAX BREAK TO THOSE WITH INFLUENCE.

-- LET SOME FUTURE GENERATION FACE UP TO INFLATION.

ON NOVEMBER 4, THE AMERICAN PEOPLE MUST CHOOSE BETWEEN

^{MY} POLICIES WHICH ^{WILL} BUILD OUR COUNTRY'S ECONOMIC STRENGTH ^{AND} ~~THAT~~ ACTUALLY

WORK TO REDUCE INFLATION -- THAT LAY THE FOUNDATION OF A TRUE

ECONOMIC RENAISSANCE IN AMERICA -- OR THOSE WHICH ^{WILL} ~~A~~ SQUANDER OUR HOPES ON ECONOMIC VOODOO.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

From: Charlie Schultze ^{C.S.}

Subject: September CPI (to be released at 9:00 a.m. Friday)

Sorry. The September CPI rose by 1.0 percent -- an annual rate of 12.7 percent.

I suggest we stress the following points about the CPI:

1. One month's statistic is not a proper measure of the status of inflation. The annual rate is the monthly number multiplied by 12 -- very small monthly fluctuations are thus blown into large ones.
2. Taking a somewhat longer look, the CPI rose at a 7 percent rate over the past three months, and at a 9.3 percent rate over the past six months, compared to the 13 percent rate of 1979 and the 18-19 percent early this year at the peak of the oil price rises.
3. Nevertheless, the September increase in the CPI reminds us that inflation is still our number one problem.
4. In that respect, it confirms the wisdom of the President's decision to avoid both an election-year tax cut and a large anti-recession spending program.
5. It is also a dramatic reminder that our economy is very sensitive to inflation and that the nation cannot afford to gamble its economic health on a massive inflationary stimulus, as Governor Reagan would have us do with his 30 percent Kemp-Roth tax cut and his other budgetary proposals.

Details on the CPI

Food was a major culprit, rising 1.6 percent. (We had forecast a 1.3 percent rise.) Meat and fruit and vegetable prices were up between 3 and 4 percent.

Mortgage interest rates fell slightly (in the CPI they lag behind actual events). Energy prices rose very little.

But prices of used cars (5.6 percent), college tuition (5.1 percent), airline and bus fares (3.6 percent), and apparel (1.3 percent) did us in.

Distressingly, the measure of CPI inflation which excludes the volatile items of food, energy and home financing, rose at a 15.7 percent annual rate, surpassed only twice during recent history (in 1974). While I believe this is a freak month, it is not good.

Perhaps the fairest measure of what is going on with respect to CPI inflation is the increase over the past six months, 9.3 percent. (The violent ups and downs in mortgage interest rates cancelled out over this period and prices excluding food, energy and home financing rose at 9.1 percent.) We also believe that long-run business costs are rising at about a 9 percent rate.

Dear Judge Bell -

I know you're interested in helping Pres. Carter get reelected.

Last night on Channel 11 at 6 PM on the evening news I heard Jean Marie Kelly report on how Atlanta? had requested money to help buy electric fans and pay electric bills for poor to help them survive the 100° heat. She emphasized that this had been months in the coming and finally now that cooler weather is promised, it came - $250,000?

I thought perhaps Pres. Carter could get good coverage on TV by saying that money could be used to buy electric blankets for these same people and pay the electric bills for using the blankets - it's just pennies a night.

I lived in a cold old house (wind coming in the cracks and blowing under the floors) and I survived the winter because of my electric blanket. I was able to get a relaxing, refreshing night of sleep and I could watch TV from my bed comfortable under my electric blanket.

Food is needed to make energy

I suggested this to the Nixon admin in '70 when I lived in this cold house on Water Road, S.C.

MEMORANDUM TO THE PRESIDENT

FROM: Jack Watson Jack
Bruce Kirschenbaum

SUBJECT: Talking Points for call to Senator Kennedy

You asked for positive talking points so that you can call Senator Kennedy concerning his memo of October 15, 1980 regarding more business for Quincy Shipyards.

You will notice from Senator Kennedy's memo attached that our proposed talking points are not in order. We have put the most positive answers first.

1. The Navy should make more work available within the first Naval District.

"On October 3, the Secretary of the Navy (Hidalgo) met with the President of Electric Boat. The Navy is now committed to make more contracts available to the First District. Mr. Velotis agreed to be more aggressive in bidding for those contracts."

2. Maritime Administration Subsidies for LNG Tanker Construction.

"The company that placed the order for the six LNG tankers is in the last stages of a Federal Court suit brought by local residents objecting to DOE granting permits for the ships to land at Pt. Conception, in California. I have instructed DOE and the Maritime Administration that once this suit has been resolved, they are to expedite their respective decisions. You can rest assured that the Departments will be helpful in any way they can to make sure Quincy gets the actual orders."

Susan
Type memo to Sen K.

Dear Ted:
In answer to your questions about Quincy Shipyards.

LMS

3. CG-47 Construction Program

Request for Quincy to get ship numbers 49 and 50.

"Although Litton won the contract for ships 47 and 48, I have instructed the Navy to consider the 'importance of sustaining Quincy's vitality and ability to compete as a factor in their final decision on Hulls 49 and 50'. While I can't promise Quincy will win this competition, this added factor could help."

4. Certification of Quincy for Nuclear Submarine Work

"This is a very complicated issue. Admiral Rickover is personally in charge of these matters and he has expressed a ~~strong~~ desire to meet with you about this particular matter. If you would like, I will tell him to please set up an appointment with you directly."

"I have asked Jack Watson to follow this matter for me personally. If you run into any snags on any of these matters, please feel free to call Jack."

DAILY POLITICAL REPORT

October 20-21, 1980

Electrostatic Copy Made for Preservation Purposes

Connecticut. UPI poll in the New Haven Register shows Carter ahead in the state. Mondale's trip received wide coverage.

Delaware. Anderson campaign is beset by financial problems. Former Governor Carvel and former State Chairman James Tunnell are both doing wide mailings supportive of Carter.

Massachusetts. One statewide poll shows Reagan 26, Carter 24, Anderson 14, Undecided 33. Mayor White's poll of the city shows Carter 37, Reagan 13, Anderson 27, Undecided 17. Tsongas had a positive letter to the editor of the Globe. He and Dukakis are now helping Drinan and the others. The Mass. Teachers endorsed Carter over the weekend, as did Alan Dershowitz, a prominent human rights activist at Harvard.

New York. Koch and six other mayors did a swing through the state praising Carter's urban record; it was organized by Mayor Lee Alexander of Syracuse.

Pennsylvania. A Daily News/Gallup poll shows Reagan 41, Carter 36, Anderson 12, Undecided 11. A UPI poll shows Arlen Specter has overtaken Pete Flaherty in the senate race, 47-42. The President received good coverage in Pittsburgh.

Alabama. Gov. Wallace will appear jointly with Max Cleland for the campaign. The Montgomery Advertiser decided not to endorse either candidate.

Arkansas. Senators Bumpers and Pryor finally held a press conference to endorse Carter.

Florida. The Miami Herald endorsed Anderson. Moon Landrieu was booed in a speech in Ft. Lauderdale.

Maryland. Reagan campaign is faltering, according to the press.

Mississippi. The Tupelo Daily Journal endorsed Carter. Evers and Abernathy endorsements are not expected to help Reagan in the state.

North Carolina. Both Raleigh papers have now endorsed Carter.

South Carolina. Senator Hollings criticized the Carter campaign's tactics as mean and dirty.

Tennessee. Three state polls show Carter leading in the state.

Illinois. Tribune poll shows Carter 30, Reagan 27, Undecided 30, Anderson 7. Sun-Times poll shows Carter 43, Reagan 41, Anderson 14. Royko column said Reagan was not smart enough to be President. Eleanor Daley endorsed Carter and received good press.

Michigan. The Detroit Free Press endorsed Carter.

Missouri. Chip Carter's trip received good coverage.

Ohio. The First Lady's trip to Youngstown received good coverage. Senator Glenn was pictured campaigning with Carter in Columbus papers.

Wisconsin. The Milwaukee Sentinel survey shows Carter ahead 37-31±14 in all polled, but Reagan leads among those most likely to vote--Reagan 37, Carter 34, Anderson 13, Undecided 18. A huge margin of Wisconsinites say Lucey's presence on the ballot makes them less likely to vote for Anderson.

California. Mervin Field poll conducted last week shows Reagan 39, Carter 32, Anderson 14, Undecided 11. In a two-man race, Regan 47, Carter 43.

Oregon. The Oregonian poll shows Carter 35, Reagan 33, Anderson 18, Undecided 11.

Texas. A University of Houston poll shows Reagan 47, Carter 36, Undecided 12. Carter Campaign immediately disputed its validity. The Austin American endorsed Carter.

11

DAILY POLITICAL REPORT

October 23, 1980

Electrostatic Copy Made

New York. The New York chapter of NOW endorsed Carter.

Pennsylvania. Several radio interviews are being scheduled for the state, including Wexler, Kahn, Watson, Doug Fraser.

Alabama. A Reagan poll shows Carter 47, Reagan 42, Anderson 4. Governor James said he would not endorse Carter, but stopped short of endorsing Reagan.

Florida. Reagan's poll shows him ahead with 43, Carter 31. Governor Graham is on the radio for Carter.

Kentucky. Reagan's poll shows him with a one-point lead. He took Kissinger, Baker, Armstrong, Rogers and Elliott Richardson with him to the state.

Louisiana. A Reagan poll shows him two points ahead, but the Carter campaign denied this.

Maryland. The Baltimore Sun endorsed Newton Steers over Cong. Mike Barnes.

Mississippi. A Peter Hart poll taken the first week of October shows Carter 38, Reagan 37, Undecided 20, Anderson 5. Reagan made a tactical mistake by taking Charles Evers to Columbus, Mississippi, a "redneck" area of the state, according to our campaign.

South Carolina. Strauss had an excellent press conference.

Tennessee. Amy Jo Kee and her parents of Nashville, Tennessee will be at the White House on Friday to see the Black Stallion with Amy Carter; you invited Amy Jo to visit you, and the UAW raised funds for the family trip.

Virginia. Bill Albers held a press conference to bring attention to the data that says Carter is only five points behind Reagan and promises a major push to win the state. He cited Reagan's attitude toward federal agencies as one reason for federal employees to vote for Carter.

West Virginia. A Charleston Gazette poll shows Carter 39, Reagan 28.

Illinois. Lots of radio is going into the state from government officials here in Washington.

Michigan. Support for Carter by Black ministers made the papers.

Missouri. A Reagan poll shows him just four points behind Carter.

Ohio. The Enquirer reports that Reagan leads by only two points in Cincinnati, which was carried easily by Ford in 1976.

California. A new Field poll shows Reagan 39, Carter 32, Anderson 14. Pat Brown held a press conference for Carter.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This newspaper has received hundreds of letters angrily criticizing President Carter. There have been far fewer letters criticizing Ronald Reagan. That is understandable. Carter has been President and has taken actions that are controversial and subject to criticism.

We have published more letters attacking Carter than letters criticizing Reagan. We have excluded letters on both sides that are extremely vitriolic. The article below is intended to balance the weight of anti-Carter items published.

By I. USHER KIRSIBLUM

Wherever there is a gathering of Jews these days the discussion turns to the subject of the Presidential election. Each one claims that his candidate is best suited to govern our country, is most loyal and faithful to the State of Israel and can bring true salvation to all of humanity. No matter what is said now most of the Jews find themselves in a great dilemma and will not make the final decision until they enter the voting booth.

Winston Churchill once said, "I have no respect for a young man under eighteen years of age who is not a Communist and one over eighteen who is." Churchill felt that it was quite natural for a young man to be progressive, liberal or even radical. However, once he passed his period of adolescence he began to search for and found the middle of the road. As he recalled his early years he begged, like the Psalmist, "Bring not up the sins of my youth!"

But what defense can one find for the pseudo-liberal John Anderson who, after having reached the age of maturity, sponsored a bill at three consecutive sessions of Congress — in 1961, 1963, 1965 — to amend the Constitution of the United States to recognize "the authority and the law of Jesus Christ as the Messiah and ruler of all nations through whom all of us are blessed by the Almighty G-d." Those words were not babbled by a fanatical youngster but by a man who at that time was close to forty years of age. I do not trust his sudden change to liberalism and I cannot believe that within the deep recesses of his heart he no longer cherishes the ideas of America becoming a Christian country. And for the life of me I cannot see how any Jew can vote for John Anderson.

Fears Reagan 'terribly'

As far as Ronald Reagan is concerned I must confess that I fear him terribly. I am afraid of his boss-man John Connally who is a foe of the State of Israel. There is no doubt in my mind that he would play a most active role in a Reagan administration. No one can deny that Reagan speaks most eloquently and reads most effectively the speeches handed to him. What actor does not? But I am detestful of hearing what he himself has to say. The few times he spoke extemporaneously he made a mess of it. Since then he has been put under the wraps.

The moment a reporter places a microphone in front of him either his press secretary, Lyn Nofziger or David Fischer, run interference for him. When he addresses Jewish audiences Reagan denounces the President very powerfully for the latter's stand on Jerusalem. But I have yet to hear one word from him what he would do for Jerusalem. O pardon me, he did state that he is for the "Vaticanization of Jerusalem," whatever that means.

What about Reagan and the activities of the fundamentalist Christian ministers in the election campaign of 1980? When I questioned one Jew on the subject he reported, "I listened to one of them who spoke with so much love for the Jews and the Holy Land." Wish I could have taken that man with me when I attended a rally of "Jews for Jews" in Stony Brook. Had I sat there with my eyes folded I surely would have believed that I was at a Zionist or Synagogue Youth rally. The singing of "Shema Yisrael," "Hine Mah Tov," "Havenu Sholom Alechem," and other songs from the Bible and our liturgy reverberated throughout the auditorium. Every speaker professed love for his Jewish brethren and loyalty to the Jewish State. But their main purpose was to make Christians of Jews.

Grateful to Carter: Fearful of Reagan!

Evangelist's endorsement

Several weeks ago, the Rev. James Robison, leading television evangelist, proclaimed, "It's time for G-d's people to come out of the closet, out of the churches and change America." He was telling his listeners, many of whom were wearing very large lapel-button, "Christians for Reagan," that they must vote Conservative. And who was sitting on that platform, drinking in thirst every word that emanated from Robison's mouth? It was not President Carter who flatly turned down the invitation but Ronald Reagan who, toward the end of the meeting, stood up and proudly proclaimed, "I endorse you!"

And Bailey Smith, president of the Southern Baptist Convention and another ardent supporter of Reagan, had the "chutzpah" to declare, "G-d Almighty does not hear the prayer of a Jew, for how in the world can G-d hear the prayer of a man who says Jesus Christ is not a true Messiah?" It was most frightening and alarming to hear Americans shout and rant "Christ is against Carter!" or "Christians must become the leaders of our country!" or "Make sure, by your vote, to make of America a Christian country!" Gloom, darkness and desolation would envelop our beloved land if, G-d forbid, our government were to fall into the hands of such fanatics. Jews would become second-class citizens in no time!

Now let us look at President Carter in his relationship with the State of Israel. The trouble with some of us is that we have very short memories. We tend to forget the suffering perpetrated upon Israel by all the past Republican presidents since the creation of the State. How can we forget the pressure President Eisenhower exerted against Israel in 1956 to withdraw from the Sinai of Agouba. He broke the iron will of Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion by going as far as to threaten the American Jewish community with removal of tax-exemption for U.J.A. contributions.

Recalls Ford 'reassessment'

There are some Jews who deify Richard Nixon but they completely overlook the constant pressure of the Nixon-Kissinger administration against Israel not to engage in any pre-emptive war, actually lulling to sleep both Golda Meir and Moshe Dayan with false assurances that Egypt would never strike first. And when the Israeli Defense Forces succeeded miraculously to surround the Egyptian Third Army and begged for another twenty-four hours to complete its task the Nixon Administration insisted upon an immediate cease-fire. And had not Gerald Ford stopped sending aid to Israel for several months in order to "reassess" the relationship of the United States with all the Middle East countries. Only President Carter, unlike his predecessors, has provided as much aid for Israel in his three and a half years of office as all previous administrations had granted since 1948.

Toward the end of August, I, together with a dozen Jewish leaders, was invited to meet with President Carter. Before accepting the invitation I called the President's administrative assistant to learn the nature of the meeting. I was not interested at all in a social gathering. When I was assured that I would have the opportunity of asking questions or making statements I decided to attend. Unhesitatingly I declared to the President what Jerusalem means to every Jew throughout the world and how the Jew takes the ancient pledge, "If I forget thee, O Jerusalem..." each week-day before pronouncing Grace after meals. Those who attended will surely recall how deeply touched the President was.

At great length the President explained why the abstention of the U.N. Resolution of August 29th was for the best interests of all parties involved in the Camp David Agreement. To have done otherwise would have forced Anwar Sadat to make a demonstration before the Arab nations by recalling his Ambassador from Israel. But instead of having McHenry just cast the vote of abstention he purposely sent Secretary Muskie not just to vote but also to clarify the position of the United States on a number of vital matters. "We will continue firmly and forcefully to resist any attempt to impose sanctions against Israel," said our Secretary of State. "Israel is to be censured — yet there is no measure of violence against Israel or efforts that undermine Israel's legitimate security needs."

Called resolution 'disruptive'

He further stated, "It (the resolution) is without force. And we reject it as a disruptive attempt to dictate to other nations.... It does nothing to advance the cause of peace." In this case the United States went as far as it could. As for those Jews who refuse to accept the President's explanation I cannot help but wonder where had they been in 1947 when the U.S. Embassy originally moved into Tel Aviv? And why were they so silent in 1957 when Jerusalem became a United City? As for me, I must confess, it matters very little where any of the foreign embassies are situated. In my heart and in the hearts of Jews the world over Jerusalem is the capital of our Holy Land. So has it been since the days of King David and so shall it remain eternally.

What is most important for us as Jews, vitally interested in the fate and future of Israel, is that President Carter has given assurances, not only at our meeting in Washington, but also on so many occasions, that the United States will not interruptly continue to give Israel economic and military aid; that he will never recognize or negotiate with the P.L.O. unless it first recognize the right of Israel to exist and stop all acts of terrorism against Israel; that he is opposed to an independent Palestinian state as counterproductive to a stable peace; and that he is for a united Jerusalem. How much more have we a right to expect from the President of the United States?

Let no one dare belittle the accomplishments of the Camp David Conference but remember what Menachem Begin had said to President Carter, "... You have inscribed your name forever in the history of two ancient civilizations." The fear of another war has, since Camp David, left the minds and hearts of the Jewish fathers and mothers in Israel, many of whom who have suffered the losses of sons and grandsons in four wars. Not all Israelis are now eating so well, because of inflation, but they all sleep well due in the greatest of measure to President Carter's efforts.

What will happen between now and November 4th no one can foretell. Of one thing I am sure — if the election were held today, tomorrow, without any hesitation or mental reservation, I, as an American, a Jew and a Zionist, would vote for Carter as President of the United States.

Carter emphasizes need to separate church and state

by Trude B. Feldman
Special to The Times

WASHINGTON — Differences over separation of church and state have become the focus of a new and sharp clash between President Jimmy Carter and his Republican challenger, Ronald Reagan.

The issue first arose during the recent debate between Reagan and John B. Anderson, the independent presidential candidate. They took opposing positions on the question of evangelical politics and abortion. John Anderson is critical of any interference by religious groups in political affairs. Ronald Reagan has stated that churches should be more involved in political activities and stoutly defends the right of religious organizations to speak out on major public issues.

President Carter believes there should be strict separation of church and state and that the state should not promote any religion to the exclusion of others.

"I don't want to get into a position of personally condemning or criticizing Governor Reagan," the President said in an interview. "But it is extremely important for us to recognize that there are some things that are vital to people all over this country in which the state should not interfere. For instance, Governor Reagan supports mandatory prayer in school.

"My own belief is that the Constitution lets prayer be a personal thing between an individual and God, not to be imposed by the government at any level.

"As President, I am against the government telling people they have to worship at a certain time and in a certain way. To me, this violates the constitutional separation of church and state. I don't think the government should interfere in the right of an American citizen to worship as he or she sees fit."

Although President Carter welcomes support from religious leaders and is a devout Christian, he said he takes exception to others who would attempt to impose one ideology on the entire nation, "since this is alien" to American tradition.

"I do have deep personal religious views," he told me. "But, as President, it is not appropriate for me to attempt to force those views on others who have different beliefs. The genius of America is its respect for diversity and pluralism and its insistence that the government should not foster one religious view over that of another. Baptists, Catholics, Jews and all Americans have an absolute right to practice freely their religious beliefs without the government's trying to support one faith in preference to others."

As for President Carter's views on abortion, he said he is not in favor of a constitutional amendment to overturn the United States Supreme Court's decision. "Abortion is a sensitive issue," he said. "Within the realm of legislation and the action that can be taken by government and by private organizations and by individuals, we should do everything possible to minimize the need for abortion. One example is to encourage family planning when this is compatible with the family's religious beliefs."

The President added that he is not in favor of federal funds being used to finance abortions. "I am willing to use federal funds only if the pregnancy is a result of rape or incest or the life of the mother is at stake," he said.

I asked the President what he thought of the statement by Dr. Bailey Smith, president of the 13-million-member Southern Baptist Convention, that "God Almighty does not hear the prayers of a Jew."

Mr. Carter, a born-again Southern Baptist himself, said he disagrees with Dr. Smith. "I believe that God hears the prayers of every person and of every religious belief — Jew or gentile alike," Mr. Carter observed. "We all came from one divine Creator and He hears and listens to all of us."

The President spoke of his innermost thoughts as he seeks a second term in the White House.

"This is a tough campaign and an uphill battle," he concedes. "What I most want is to tell the people what my administration has accomplished, what our plans are for the future, and to set forth the differences between myself and Governor Reagan. Those differences are the most fundamental that have existed between any presidential candidates in my lifetime, with the possible exception of the 1964 contest between Barry Goldwater and Lyndon Johnson."

President Carter gave the following examples:

"Governor Reagan has taken positions against fundamental social legislation such as Medicaid, Medicare, minimum wage, workers' safety and health, environmental protection and aid to education.

"Governor Reagan also would have our country embark upon what I consider to be a dangerous and ill-founded nuclear arms race to achieve nuclear superiority which no one can win.

"Governor Reagan's economic views are simplistic. The massive, across-the-board tax cuts he proposes, as the answer to every economic ill, are highly inflationary, highly regressive and do not match the balanced program for the revitalization of American industry that I recently announced."

The President added that he is "appalled" by Governor Reagan's policy — that the solution to our nation's energy problem is to turn loose the major oil companies.

Governor Reagan is against conservation and he has beliefs on the amount of domestic crude oil reserves which are not shared by any experts in the area," Mr. Carter stated. "He also wants to repeal the windfall-profits tax which takes a reasonable amount out of revenues from the oil companies to be used for public purposes. He is opposed to an expansion of our solar and renewable-energy program which is vital to our nation's security, and he opposes our new synthetic-fuel efforts.

"All of these programs that he opposes are essential to free the United States from excessive dependence on foreign oil."

Mr. Carter maintains that he has cut our energy dependence by more than 20 per cent to decrease our dependence on foreign oil, and that we are moving inexorably toward energy security for the country. "It is crucial that we not be subject to pressure or blackmail from the OPEC nations," he stressed.

"We have put in place the foundation for an energy policy for the 1980's and we expect to add to it in the coming months and years. We are now importing almost 2 million barrels per day less foreign oil than in 1977, when I came to office. And, since then, we have reversed the historic increase in American dependence on foreign oil which I inherited."

Mr. Carter believes that before November 4, a majority of the American people will decide that Ronald Reagan's positions are unsuitable for the next four years. The President appears to be running not only on his own record, but against the way in which Reagan would run the country.

Despite the polls that are predicting his defeat, President Carter remains optimistic that he will be re-elected. He gave three reasons for his confidence.

1. "Both unemployment and inflation are coming down; 1981 will be the year that we will come out of our recession with a good recovery, which will continue to reduce unemployment as we continue to work on our problem of inflation."

2. "I've been able to get most of my major legislation through Congress, in particular to deregulate airlines, trucks, and rails and to help make our nation energy secure."

3. "The shortcomings of Mr. Reagan's positions on which the public will soon focus as the election draws near."

Mr. Carter added that Reagan has taken some "extraordinarily erratic and extremely conservative" positions on foreign and domestic affairs over the past 16 years.

"I don't think his positions represent the mainstream of America's beliefs," Mr. Carter concluded. "He has opposed some of the essential social advances, and has taken positions on foreign affairs which are ill-founded."

"He has suggested that American troops be sent to a number of different countries; his solution to the Afghanistan crisis was to blockade Cuba; and he would involve our country in an unwinnable effort at nuclear superiority."

SUNNY GOULD NORMAN

4931 Vendome Place,
New Orleans, Louisiana 70124

Tel: (504) 866-1829

Sunny Gould Norman was born in Port Arthur, Texas. She graduated with a B.A. in psychology from Mills College, and then joined her father's Houston-based company, The Alaskan, directing all merchandising and retailing activities there.

The wife of the late P. Roussel Norman, a Morgan City, La., businessman with major interests in banking and land management, as well as the cypress lumber and oil industries, Mrs. Norman is the mother of two children.

Her daughter, Linda Norman Friedman, the wife of a bank executive, resides in New Orleans with her family. Her son, M. Frank Norman, Ph.D., is a professor of mathematical psychology, University of Pennsylvania.

From 1937 to 1959, while a resident of Morgan City, Mrs. Norman and her late husband were responsible for significant land contributions to that city, thus ensuring the building of the Municipal Auditorium and the hospital. They helped found the first citywide recreation program and the Morgan City library system, and made significant contributions to the schools and cultural life of the Morgan City area. Additionally, Mrs. Norman served as consultant to the then-emerging, now well-established Morgan City Archives.

A noted collector of contemporary art, Mrs. Norman continues to serve on boards and committees of numerous cultural and educational organizations in Louisiana. Additionally, she has served as a fellow of the Fogg Museum, Harvard University; member of the Advisory Board of the Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art; and as a member of the International Council of the Museum of Modern Art.

Mrs. Norman has been a member of the Board of Trustees of the New Orleans Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra for the past 17 years, and a member of the Board of Trustees of the New Orleans Museum of Art for 14 years. She is also a member of the Ad Hoc Committee of the Louisiana Arts Council.

Preferring anonymity, Mrs. Norman and her late husband have been quiet initiators and supporters of numerous important artistic and cultural projects.

In addition to underwriting and sponsoring the first interdisciplinary program for young people at the New Orleans Museum of Art which encouraged participatory museum experiences in place of routine tours, Mr. and Mrs. Norman also donated numerous significant pre-Columbian and African art objects to the Museum's collections. They also donated their entire collection of James Steg prints, along with an important group of lithographs of noted contemporary artists.

Additional Civic Activities:

1980-

Vice president, New Orleans Museum of Art; member, policy committee for management study.

Recipient, City of New Orleans Award for Distinctive Achievement in the Arts.

Member, Mayor's Urban Design Committee for Art in Public Places.
