President Carter announced today that he will be designating Susan Bennett King to be the new Chairman of the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

The President emphasized that he personally made the decision to support the three year reauthorization of the agency and he backs the OMB budget recommendation for FY 1979.

Confirming his support for a strong consumer product safety regulatory program, the President said that it will be up to the agency to prove itself over the next three years, but the CPSC will have the full support and cooperation of the White House.

Esther Peterson's office has approved this statement.

THE WHITE HOUSE

The President today announced that he will nominate Susan B. King and Edith B. Sloan to be commissioners of the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

✓ King, 37, served as special assistant to the chairman of the Federal Election Commission from 1975 to 1977. She was vice president of the Center for Public Financing of Elections from 1973 to 1975, and Washington director of the National Committee for an Effective Congress from 1967 to 1973. She is presently working toward a J.D. at Catholic University Law School in Washington.

Sloan, 39, is director of the Office of Consumer Protection of the District of Columbia. She was executive director of the National Committee on Household Employment from 1969 to 1976. She was with the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights from 1965 to 1968, and with HARYOU-ACT Project Uplift in New York City in 1965. She was a delegate to the National Black Economic Caucus in 1975. She holds a J.D. from Catholic University.
