

“Wackiest White House Pets” – Award-winning children’s book author Gibbs Davis will be conducting two readings on Wednesday, September 21, 2011. The first presentation begins at 10:00 AM, and the second begins at 11:30 AM. Copies of this book will be available in the Museum Store.

This is a free student event, but reservations are required. Please contact Kahlil Chism, Education Specialist, to reserve a seat for your students: kahlil.chism@nara.gov. 404-865-7126.

“White House pets come in every size, shape, and species! And now, Gibbs Davis has culled from the extensive White House menagerie the wackiest of the wacky pets that belonged to the world’s most powerful men and their families. With comical anecdotes and hilarious illustrations, this is a side-splitting look at American history shown through the most child-appealing White House residents.” - Children’s Book Council
