Office of the Cabinet Secretary: A Guide to Its Records at the Jimmy Carter Library

Collection Summary

Creating Organization or Creator: Office of the Cabinet Secretary and Assistant for Intergovernmental Affairs.

Title: Office of the Cabinet Secretary

Quantity: 308 linear feet; 206 linear feet open for research; 471 Containers

Identification:
Accession Number: 80-1
Archival Research Catalog (ARC) Identification: 568941

Scope and Content:
The files consist of correspondence, letters, memoranda, studies, recommendations, briefing material, notes, speeches, press releases, news clippings and publications that represent the function of the Office of the Cabinet Secretary.

These materials illustrate how the Office of the Cabinet Secretary expedited the decisions and policies made by the President and the Cabinet. As Cabinet Secretary, Jack Watson (and subsequently Eugene Eidenburg) attended Cabinet meetings, but they did not have Cabinet level status. The office could be handed other tasks, as in this case, the Cabinet Secretary was also head of Intergovernmental Relations. These files document how the director of Intergovernmental Relations worked with local and state governments to help formulate policy for urban development, rural programs, regional planning, and neighborhood and community projects.

Creator Information: Office of the Cabinet Secretary. Assistant for Intergovernmental Affairs.

In January 1977, President Jimmy Carter appointed Jack Watson to the posts of Cabinet Secretary and Assistant for Intergovernmental Affairs. Watson continued to serve in these dual posts until June 11, 1980, when he left to become Chief of Staff for the Carter White House. Eugene Eidenberg was appointed to replace Watson in both positions and served until the end of the administration. The staff includes the Cabinet Secretary, the Deputy Cabinet Secretary, an Associate Assistant for Intergovernmental Affairs, and eight staff assistants.
The function of the Office of the Cabinet Secretary is to expedite the decisions and policies made by the President and the Cabinet. The office could be handed other tasks, as in this case, the Cabinet Secretary was also head of Intergovernmental Relations. The director of Intergovernmental Relations helped formulate policy for urban development, rural programs, regional planning, and neighborhood and community projects. The Cabinet Secretary’s Office maintained close contacts with other federal agencies, particularly FEMA, (Federal Emergency Management Agency). This was a result of the office’s frequent liaison with governors, states, regions, and local governments. The Cabinet Secretary met regularly with groups like the National Governors Association, the Federal Regional Councils, the Interagency Coordinating Council, and associations of states, counties, cities, and local governments.

Biographical information on key office personnel is located at the end of the finding aid.

Federal Emergency Files
Scope and Content: Containers 203-226. Series was opened in November, 2007. This series contains materials from both positions (Cabinet Secretary and Intergovernmental Affairs) held by Jack Watson and later by Eugene Eidenberg. Since Watson was frequently in close contact with FEMA (Federal Emergency Management Agency), and FEMA was a separate agency from the Cabinet Secretary’s Office, Watson’s acted as a liaison. He worked with governors, states and regions regarding special problems. This series consists of correspondence, memoranda, publications, press releases, reports, statements and meeting notes relating to natural disasters such as floods, droughts, hurricanes, snow storms, and forest fires. Also included is material on the renowned emergencies of the Carter administration including: the volcanic explosion of Mount Saint Helen; the Love Canal toxic dump; and record snow levels in Buffalo and other New York State communities. Arranged alphabetically by folder title.
