TWO AUTHOR READINGS & BOOK SIGNINGS THIS WEEK
FOREIGN POLICY ANALYSIS TO DETECTIVE NOVEL

ATLANTA, GA.- The Carter Presidential Library hosts two special author readings and book signings this week. On Thursday, April 2nd at 7pm, we will help launch the Brookings Institution's new book "The Obama Administration and the Americas: Agenda for Change." This new analysis argues that the new administration should focus early and strategically on Latin America. Our neighbors to the south impact daily on the lives of U.S. citizens, on issues such as energy, narcotics, immigration, trade, and jobs.

Join the book's editor Abraham Lowenthal, Professor of International Relations, University of Southern California and specialist in U.S.-Latin American relations, as well as Laurence Whitehead, Official Fellow of Politics at Oxford University, England, specialist in Comparative Democratization and Latin American Politics and Jennifer McCoy, Professor of Political Science, Georgia State University, and Director of the Americas Program, Carter Center for a fascinating discussion of the future of US-Latin American relations. The discussion is co-sponsored by the Carter Center and is open to the public.

On Saturday afternoon (April 4th) at 2pm, the Carter Library welcomes back best-selling novelist Walter Mosley. In his new mystery "The Long Fall" Mosley introduces a new character, Leonid McGill. You won't want to miss this wonderful opportunity to hear and meet Walter Mosley. Following his reading, Mosley will sign copies of his new book. Books will be for sale at the event.

Both readings and book signings will be in the Carter Library theater. They are open to the public at no charge. For more information call 404-865-7109 or visit www.jimmycarterlibrary.gov
