Carter Library Gardens In Bloom

See Carter Center Grounds While Museum Closed

Atlanta, GA.— The Carter Presidential Museum may be closed to the public while the renovation takes place, but the Carter Center grounds are open and worth a visit.

Work has begun to take down the original displays in the Carter Presidential Museum. All the original artifacts are being carefully catalogued and stored.

While the work is underway to create a wonderful new Presidential Museum, it is a great time to stroll the grounds of the Carter Presidential Center.

The Rose Garden is in bloom and looks spectacular.

The lakes and Japanese Garden offer a quiet, relaxing area.

And don't miss seeing our newest residents, six baby goslings.
