News21-03

February 26, 2021

We and the National Archives are continuing to monitor conditions in Georgia to determine when it is safe for the public to return to the library and museum. In the meantime, you can keep up with us on our webpage, Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, and our YouTube channel.

Medicare for All: A Citizen's Guide
Author Program
Monday, March 8, 2021 at 7:00 pm

Two public health experts bring us the most clear-eyed treatise available on America's most debated public policy. The Carter Library and ACappella Books present physician, epidemiologist, public health expert Abdul El-Sayad and physician and a health care researcher, Micah Johnson for a discussion of the pros and cons of Medicare for All. This is a free, online conversation. In partnership with ACappella Books. Details and Link at

MEDICARE FOR ALL

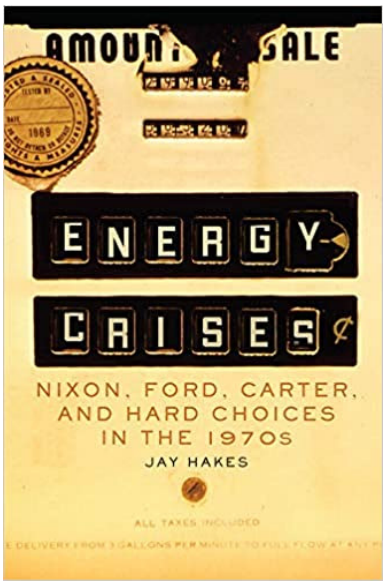

Martha Teichner Author Program
Tuesday, March 23 at 7:00 pm

This a memoir of love and loss, of being in the right place at the right time, and of the mysterious ways a beloved pet can bring people together, from “CBS Sunday Morning” correspondent and multi-Emmy-Award-winning Martha Teichner. In this rich and touching narrative, Martha considers the ways our stories are shaped by the people we meet, and the profound love we can find by opening our hearts to unexpected encounters. Martha Teichner will be in conversation with Gail Evans. In partnership with ACappella Books. Details and Link at

When Harry Met Minnie

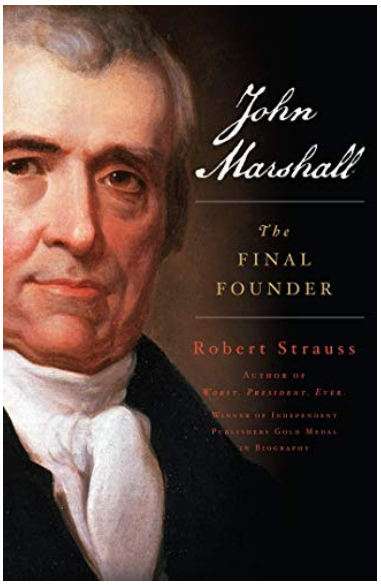

Jay Hakes Author Program
Monday, April 5 at 7:00 pm

Former Administrator of the U.S. Energy Information Agency and Director of the Carter Presidential Library Jay Hakes brings his expertise in energy and presidential history to bear on the questions of why energy crises occurred, how different choices might have prevented or ameliorated them, and what they have meant for the half-century since—and likely the half-century ahead. Hakes will be in conversation with the Carter Center's Steve Hochman. In partnership with ACappella Books. Details and Link at

Energy Crises

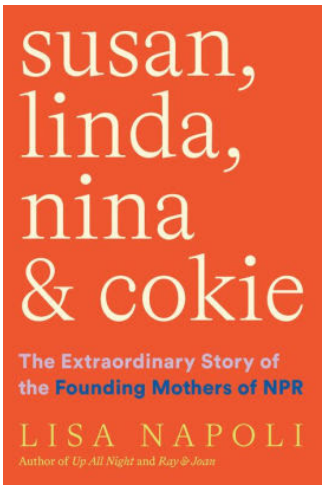

Robert Strauss Author Program
Wednesday, April 7 at 7:00 pm

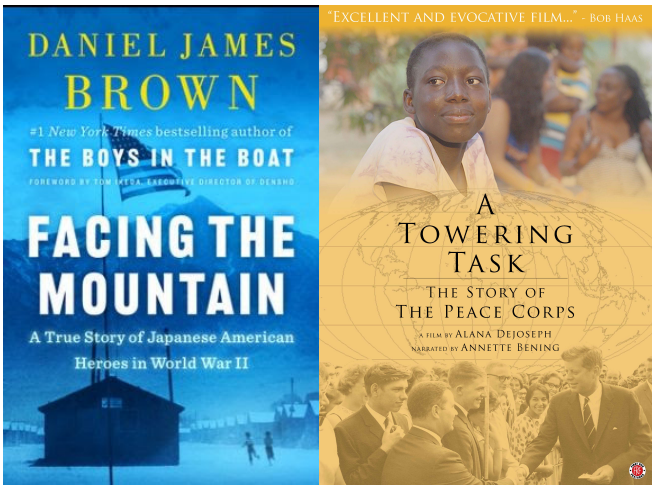

Eighteenth- and 19th-century contemporaries believed John Marshall to be, if not the equal of George Washington and Benjamin Franklin, at least very close to that pantheon. In his new book, journalist and historian Robert Strauss recounts how the Chief Justice acted as the glue that held the union together after the original founding days. In partnership with ACappella Books. Details and Link at

Coming Programs

In the weeks ahead, we'll also hear the story of the founding women of NPR, the untold story of Japanese American soldiers during World War Two and a film screening of the story of the Peace Corps. Watch our website and Facebook page for details and links.

Senior Community Distance Learning

The Carter Library is committed to continue providing quality programming to Senior Community groups and organizations during the Covid-19 pandemic. Our Education staff offers flexibility to deliver distance learning programming on a variety of topics related to the Carter Presidency, American Civics and Government, and the Mission, Vision and Values of the National Archives and Records Administration.

All programming is free of charge, with a minimum of 10 participants required for consideration. Requestor also agrees to host the program on a distance learning platform approved by their organization (Carter Library staff will present as co-host).

To schedule a distance learning program or to obtain further details, contact: Joshua Montanari, Education Specialist at joshua.montanari@nara.gov

From the Carter Presidential Library's Holdings Collection Gifts of State

This elephant figurine was given to Amy Carter personally by Sri Lankan Ambassador to the United States Neville Kanakaratne, at the National Zoo in Washington D.C. on April 2, 1977.

Amy also accepted a real 1-year-old Asian elephant named "Shanthi" on behalf of the children of America. Shanthi lived for 45 years at the National Zoo before passing in June 2020. Her baby, Kandula (b.2001), lives at the Oklahoma City Zoo.

REDISCOVERING BLACK HISTORY

"An Inspiration Throughout the World": President Carter Presents Living Legacy Awards

by Daria Labinsky, Archivist at the Jimmy Carter Presidential Library.

When you work in an archives, you frequently discover amazing events that make you wish for a time machine (and a guest pass). One such event took place at the White House on February 23, 1979, when President Jimmy and First Lady Rosalynn Carter presented Living Legacy Awards to Black elders for achievements in the areas of art, education, medicine, business, politics, religion, and other fields. In addition to being barrier breakers in their professions, many of the recipients were also dedicated, long-time civil rights activists.

Louis E. Martin
Black History Month Profile

In celebration of Black History Month, the Jimmy Carter Presidential Library has produced a short educational video on the life and impact of Louis E. Martin, a journalist, newspaper publisher, civil rights activist and advisor to three Presidents, including Jimmy Carter. Through his political activism and mentorship of Black American Leaders, he came to be known as the "Godfather of Black Politics."
